

HON. HENRY G. DAVIS IS DULY NOTIFIED

Democratic Vice-Presidential Candidate Given the Official Tip.

AT WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS

Hundreds of Enthusiastic Democrats From Virginia and Bordering States Witnessed the Ceremony.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Henry Cassaway Davis was formally notified that he is the nominee of the democratic party for vice-president of the United States. Mr. Davis accepted the nomination in a brief speech reviewing the political situation, echoing the sentiments of Judge Parker on the money question and expressing the determination to be successful in the campaign.

Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, chairman of the notification committee, delivered the notification address.

Ceremonies on the Lawn.

The ceremonies were held on the lawn of the White Sulphur Springs hotel, which affords a natural amphitheater, the grounds sloping up from the speakers stand on all sides and sheltered by huge, spreading oaks. The day was an ideal one from every standpoint.

Hundreds of enthusiastic democrats had assembled from the Virginias and bordering states, and heavy trainloads brought others from a distance. Mountaineers came on horseback, on foot and in wagons with their families.

With Utmost Simplicity.

The ceremonies were marked by the utmost simplicity. The famous Stone- wall brigade band of Staunton, Va., organized by Gen. Jackson, played stirring airs. A pretty incident occurred at the conclusion of the ceremonies, when a delegation of 17 ladies from Atlanta, Ga., headed by Mrs. W. L. Peel, all bearing the Georgia state flag, came forward to congratulate the candidate. These same ladies tendered Judge Parker a reception in Atlanta last June.

Chairman Thomas Taggart of the national committee, who had planned to attend the ceremonies, wired that it would be impossible for him to get to White Sulphur. Perry Belmont was the only representative of the New York democracy present.

Mr. Davis Was Out Early.

Mr. Davis was an early riser this morning. His attire was a dark business suit, with sack coat, made distinctive by his old-fashioned white shirt with high-standing collar attached and black tie.

He mingled freely with the throngs on the broad hotel veranda and held many impromptu receptions in the corridors. Mr. Davis gave evidence of good spirits and health, and evinced keen interest in meeting his old friends and making new ones.

The notification committee, with 38 members present, 15 of whom were proxies, met in the hotel parlor at 11 a. m., organized and then sent for Mr. Davis and presented him the following letter of formal notification:

The Formal Notification.

Mr. Davis—As the committee on notification to the vice-presidential nominee, we have the honor, in the name of the democratic national convention which was held at St. Louis, on July 6 to 8, to announce to you with that degree of formality which custom and respectful observance prescribe, the fact that you were unanimously named by that body as their choice for vice-president of the United States for the term beginning on the 4th of March, 1905, and to request respectively your acceptance of the nomination. Knowing that we ought to succeed and confiding in the good sense of the American people for success, we are, with well-measured regard,

Yours for the committee,

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS,

Chairman.

W. R. McCULL, Secretary.

LABOR DAY AT WORLD'S FAIR

The Preparations For Its Celebration Have Had to Be Enlarged.

East St. Louis and Vicinity Will Join With St. Louis in a Monster Demonstration Sept. 5.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—The preparations which were under way for the Labor day celebration on the World's fair grounds, September 5, have proven to be inadequate for the occasion. The assured participation of building trades councils and locals from outside cities is such as to necessitate elaborating the plans proposed for the parade and other special events. Mr. George W. King, of the Building Trades Council of St. Louis, has been appointed grand marshal of the parade. He has been compelled to add eight divisions to the parade already decided upon, and make nine divisions, to include the building trades councils of East St. Louis and vicinity. At a recent meeting of the East St. Louis council it was unanimously decided to hold the entire East St. Louis Labor day celebration on the exposition grounds, and to participate in the parade and other events arranged for the day. Mr. T. D. Wyant was appointed chairman of the Labor day committee, and is co-operating with the general St. Louis committee, of which Mr. R. M. Baker is chairman. Mr. Wyant guarantees that the East St. Louis division will contain at least 1,500 men.

Mr. King during the past few days has sent out formal entry blanks for the twelfth annual meeting of the building trades councils on Labor day.

For the special accommodation of members of labor unions and their families, the director of works has given orders to prepare suitable picnic grounds in the southern portion of the exposition grounds, immediately adjacent to intramural stations Nos. 11 and 12. The grounds will be equipped with tables and chairs, and all of which will be placed at convenient points, and will be free to the public.

THOMAS E. WATSON HAS BEEN NOTIFIED

Informed of His Selection to Head National Populist Ticket.

REPLIES IN A LENGTHY SPEECH

Take a Pot Shot at Judge Parker, But Says He Has No Words of Abuse For Theodore Roosevelt.

New York, Aug. 19.—Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, the people's party candidate for president, and Thomas H. Tamm, of Nebraska, vice-presidential candidate, were formally notified of their nomination here Thursday night at Cooper Union. The big hall was crowded when, at eight o'clock, the two candidates, accompanied by Alfred G. Boulton, of Brooklyn, chairman of the meeting, appeared on the platform. There was much cheering.

Chairman Boulton at once introduced Judge Samuel W. Williams, of Indiana, who made the speech officially notifying the candidates of their selection.

In addressing Mr. Watson, Mr. Williams said the convention that nominated him was made up of unselfish, self-sacrificing patriots, who attended and participated in its deliberations solely through a high sense of duty.

"The purpose of the convention," he continued, "was to take one more step in the evolution of progress which is finally to bring up to that ideal condition of society, where the laborer shall receive the full fruits of his labor, and an injury to one shall be the concern of all."

"The work of the hour was not to trim a sail of expediency, to catch a passing breeze of popular, though transient approval, but rather to proclaim and again declare in plain and concise language the principles and promises of the people's party as first laid down at Omaha in 1892, and subsequently reaffirmed in 1896 and in 1900. It was understood there that our nominee must be a man with whom coffices was a matter of conscience, and who believed truly and fully in the tenets of populism; who subscribed to the doctrine of the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of Almighty God; who stood ready, able and willing, to defend, against any and all comers, each and every plank in our platform, and who, if elected president of the United States, would have the broadness of mind, the goodness of heart, the firmness of character, the knowledge of men and affairs, to so administer the duties of that high office as to bring the best possible degree of peace, harmony and happiness to the whole people."

"We confidently invite the country to say whether or not the convention fulfilled these requirements."

"We know your zeal for and fidelity to our party, and its principles during all the years of its history."

"We realize with Jefferson and Lincoln, with Peter Cooper and Henry George, with Polk and with Donnelly, in placing the man above the dollar."

When Mr. Watson arose to speak, the cheering continued nearly four minutes. Chairman Boulton introduced him in half a dozen words, simply referring to him as the candidate of the people's party.

After a formal notice that he would now prepare a formal letter of acceptance, Mr. Watson gave up a great portion of his address to a discussion of the democratic and republican platforms and the candidacy of Judge Parker. He referred to the democratic candidates good telegram as follows:

"Surrounded by the Wall street magnates who had financed his campaign for two years, Judge Parker bided his time till the peril of the two-thirds rule were passed, and when it was too late for the convention to retract its steps—for even the democratic bosses require more than fifteen minutes to turn completely round—he cracks the Wall street whip over the heads of his supporters, and with prompt obedience the great democratic legions were made to turn their flag and reverse their line of march."

"I have no words of abuse for Theodore Roosevelt. I believe him to be a brave, honest, unselfish man, and I have full credit for having a splendid courage of conviction, but inasmuch as he stands for these government principles, which, in my judgment, are hurrying this republic into a sordid despotism of wealth, I will combat him and his principles as long as there is breath in my body."

"It is an easier and quicker job to strike an open enemy right between the eyes than it is to tear off the mask from the face of a pretended friend, and show him to be the hypocrite that he is."

"Deep down in their hearts," he said, "the masses of the people feel that the reins of power are slipping out of their hands. In spite of all that can be done by a partisan press, the fact can not be concealed from the eyes of the average citizen that the vast preponderance of the wealth produced in this land is transferred by legal means to a comparatively few; that the courts are run in the interest of the few; that the law-making power is manipulated by the few; and that while the old political parties pretend to devote themselves to the interests of the common people, they are both financed by Wall street, both dominated by Wall street, both the willing and the servile tools of Wall street."

A GRAND EQUINE DISPLAY

Two Thousand of the Finest Bred Horses in Grand Parade.

It Will Constitute the Feature of the Inauguration of the World's Fair Horse Show August 23.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—Two thousand of the finest bred horses in the United States, Canada, Europe and Arabia, representing over twenty distinct types of blooded animals, will be the feature of the live stock parade that will inaugurate the great World's fair stock show, which begins Monday, August 22. The parade will take place Tuesday afternoon, 23d, and will be participated in by President Francis, Chief of Live Stock Department Col. Charles F. Mills, the heads of the departments and officials of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co.

The parade will form in the live stock forum, the big arena where all events take place, and will parade the grounds, passing in review before President Francis and assembled officials on the main avenue at the southwest corner of the Transportation building. The place of honor at the head of the 2,000 blue-blooded horses of all breeds will be given to the American saddle horse. One hundred and fifty of the pick of the saddle animals of the different states, ridden by the riders who will exhibit them, will lead the parade. Practically every prize winning animal in the country of this type has been entered in competition for the World's fair awards, and all will be seen in one magnificent body on Tuesday next. No similar sight has ever before been witnessed, and the lovers of this peculiarly distinctive American type of animal may see the climax of excellency in the horses that pass in review in the big parade.

That other product of American breeding, the standard bred trotter, harness and roadster horse, will follow the saddlers. The entries in this class are even more numerous than the saddle horse. Representatives of every prominent breeding farm in the country will participate in the parade. All of the great winning sires and dams on the American trotting turf will be represented, and some of the famous campaigners and record breakers themselves will be seen.

The thoroughbreds will follow the harness horses. Practically all of the noted breeders of the running type of this country, and a number from England will have famous mares and stallions on exhibit.

The other 17 types of horses representing every breed that has been established in this or any other country, will follow in classification. No such assembling of blooded horses of as many distinct classes has ever before been attempted, and no horse show has ever approximated the two weeks' exhibit, which will begin August 22.

How Uria Made the Str.

Admiral Uria, who is winning distinction in the Japanese navy, received his nautical education at Annapolis, where he took high standing and was popular with his classmates. He was noted for studying hard and for great conscientiousness in the performance of the thousand and one duties of the naval cadet. Not long after entering, and while our language was still largely a mystery to him, he was one day confined to his room by a slight illness. He was looked after by the surgeon, and his condition became a matter of record, nevertheless he felt moved to send explanations to a favorite instructor, and did so as follows:

"My Teacher: You have seen that I do not stand before you. I am inclosed in the room by the much sickness. I do not feel like making the stir. I regret to miss your most beautiful instruction of the mathematics. To-morrow I hope greatly to find it easy to make the stir."

From his achievements in the present war the admiral seems to be in full possession of his ability to "make the stir."—Saturday Evening Post.

Reported in New York Assembly.

The bill making West Seneca, in Erie county, a city under the name of Lackawanna, which was passed in the assembly, occasioned a bit of debate which was out of the ordinary.

"The gentleman who has spoken in opposition to this bill," said Mr. Cook, of Buffalo, "is a plinked."

"The gentleman who favors this bill," said Mr. Cox, referring to Mr. Cook, "has a vacuum where his brain ought to be."

Then Assemblyman Lynch arose and said:

"Mr. Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to find that, for the first occasion since I have served in the legislature with them, I can agree with both Mr. Cox and Mr. Cook. I agree with what Mr. Cook said about Mr. Cox, and I endorse what Mr. Cox said about Mr. Cook."

AS EASY.

Needs Only a Little Thinking.

The food of childhood often decides whether one is to grow up well nourished and healthy or weak and sickly from improper food.

It's just as easy to be one as the other, provided we get a proper start.

A wise physician like the Denver Doctor who knew about food, can accomplish wonders, provided the patient is willing to help and will eat only proper food.

Speaking of this case the Mother said her little four-year-old boy was suffering from a peculiar derangement of the stomach, liver and kidneys and his feet became so swollen he couldn't take a step. "We called a Doctor who said at once we must be very careful as to his diet, as improper food was the only cause of his sickness. Sugar especially, he forbade."

"So the Dr. made up a diet and the principal food he prescribed was Grape-Nuts and the boy, who was very fond of sweet things, took
